O'DOWD BEATEN BY EDDIE SHEA

Pride of Chicago Carries Off Verdict at Olympic

Jackie Mandell Loses Scrap to Huerta Evans

Blake Takes Decision Over Cobb in Special

BY PAUL LOWRY

Eddie Shea gave Mike O'Dowd a thorough going over at the Olympic last night, and at the finish there wasn't a dissenting voice when Referee Frank Holborrow raised the tough little Italian's arm.

O'Dowd made a fight of it all the way, but at the end his right eye was closed and his ribs were bruised and red. Shea's steady swinging to the face and his terrific socks to the body were more than O'Dowd could match.

Shea cracked his right time and again to O'Dowd's shortribs, and it was these wallops more than the smashes to the head that told the tale.

O'Dowd started strong, winning the first round by virtue of a half-knockdown and half slip, which he scored over Shea.

However, from the second round on Shea had the upper hand, planting lefts and rights to the head at long range and snapping blows to the body that sounded like the crack of a blacksnake.

Both boys weighed the same—128 pounds—but the shorter, sturdier Shea appeared much the stronger of the two. The house was mediocre.

Trojans Even Series With Bruin Nine

Sam Crawford's University of Southern California nine scored a 6-to-5 victory over the U.C.L.A. tossers at Bovard Field yesterday afternoon. This evens the count in the series, the third and deciding game to be played this afternoon at Moore Field. The Trojans got off to an early lead yesterday, but were badly scored in the ninth when the Bruins came within one run of tying the score, being retired with two men on the bags. Schulz and Gibson formed the Trojan battery, while Graham and Birlenback worked for the losers.

Bambino Hits Home Run as Yankees Win

WASHINGTON, May 1. (AP)—The Yankees made it three in r row over Washington, winning, 8 to 5, to extend the Senators' streak to eight games. Babe Ruth enacted his home-run trick in the first inning, his fifth four-ply clout of the season. Marberry was the victim. Babe got three other hits in five chances, one triple.

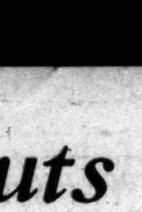
BARFOOT SHUTS OUT BELLS, 1-0

Angel Hurler Gives Former Mates Three Hits

Dittmar's Double Sends in Berger With Run

Jones's Star Stop Aids Krug Squad in Victory



SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Two Angel castoffs from the Seals beat the Missions today and two former Mission players saw to it that they stayed beaten. Berger, a long-legged kid who was with the Seals at Boyes Springs a couple of years ago, singled in the second and Burkett bunted him to second. Carl Dittmar, another former Seal, doubled to score him with the only run of the game. Los Angeles won, 1 to 0, and won because Clyde Barfoot, a former Mission pitcher, allowed only three hits and Bobby Jones, another former Mission player, came up with a wonderful stop in the eighth inning to rob Bill Rodda of a hit.

Art Weis and Frank Brazill, former Los Angeles players who came to the Missions in a trade for Barfoot and Jones, both went to bat in the eighth inning and were easy outs, so on the showing made by the four athletes involved the Angels had all the best of the trade.

Fuzzy Hufft played his first game for the Missions. He made a three-base hit in the fourth when Schulmerich got tangled up in his own feet on a drive to center, but there were two down at the time and McDaniel popped to Dittmar for the third out.

Barfoot pitched a fine game. He allowed only three hits and did not walk a man. He struck out two. So the Missions had few opportunities to tie the score. Swanson got a hit in the first inning and was bunted to second by Finn, but Rodda and Hufft were easy outs.

In the fourth with two out Hufft tripled, but McDaniel popped out.

Rose opened the fifth with a hit and Slade bunted him to second, but neither Baldwin nor Holling could come through. Score:

Dave Keefe held the Oaks to seven hits, three in the fourth frame giving the locals their lone run. Earl Sheeley played a bang-up game at first base for the winners. The score:

INTRODUCING THE WORLD'S CHAMPION

You are looking at Capt. Lee Barnes of the University of Southern California track-and-field team. He now holds the world record of 14ft. 1½in. for the pole vault, and will be seen in action Saturday at the Coliseum. Middle photo shows Barnes on bar which he practices on to secure proper timing for altitudinous excursions. At the bottom Coach Dean Cromwell is congratulating Barnes on his feat in finally attaining the world's record for which he has worked so many years.

STARS COME FROM BEHIND TO TRIM LEAGUE LEADERS

Rhodes Holds San Francisco Safe After Shellenback Is Routed; Sheiks Bump Mitchell Hard

BY BOB RAY

Those soaring Stars from Hollywood wasted no time getting into the good graces of Wrigley Field fans. The Stars, who returned home from a two-week trip to the Northwest yesterday morning, spotted the league-leading Seals a five-run lead and then proceeded to come from behind and administer a 10-to-8 shellacking in the opener of this "croocial" series now on at Wrigley Field.

After the Seals had knocked Frank Shellenbeck to cover in the second inning, Oscar Vitt sent young Gordon Rhodes to the mound and the Hollywood rookie stopped the league-leaders sufficiently for his mates to come from behind and pull the contest out of the fire.

More than 5000 fans turned out for the game and got a big thrill out of the Seals' downfall, especially after Nick Williams's charges apparently had the game in the bag.

Oliver Mitchell started on the mound for the Seals, but had to be derricked in the fifth after the Stars had treated his offerings rudely and the lanky southpaw had put on a rather silly exhibition showing that he thought the blame for poor showing should be put on young Jerry Donovan, who filled in at first. Donovan missed a couple of sizzling chances down the first-base line that went for singles and Mitchell was quick to choose an "out" to lay the blame to the youngster. It was certainly a childish performance on Mitchell's part, for he's old enough to know better even if he is a left-hander.

"Burkshot" May followed Mitchell to the mound but the damage had been done by this time.

The Seals started out after Shellenback as though they were the champions of the world and batted over one run in the first inning when Pinelli singled, took second on an infield out

BARNES HOLDS INTEREST IN SATURDAY TRACK FEST

BY BRAVEN DYER

Now that the pole vault artists are soaring to dizzy heights practically every time they don their track unies, fans are beginning to pay more attention to this altitudinous event which received only passing notice in years gone by. When Capt. Lee Barnes takes his bamboo pole in hand at the Coliseum Saturday afternoon he'll be as closely watched as Charley Borah, and track fans always rivet their attention on "Curly-headed Charley" no matter who he runs against.

Barnes may and may not repeat his record-breaking jump of last Saturday this week-end. Lee cleared 14ft. 1½in. at Fresno, thereby wrecking Sabin Carr's old mark of 14ft. 1in. However, the Trojan captain has had the unpleasant experience in the past of going stale just about the time he wanted to be at his best. With the memory of this in his mind, Barnes is not going to bear down at all during the next three weeks. The I. C. 4-A. meet is slated for the 25th and 26th inst. The Olympic Games are even more distant. So whatever Barnes does against the L.A.A.C. vaulters Saturday will be purely on the spur of the moment. He is taking only one workout this week.

It was in 1926 that Barnes went stale when he wanted to be at his best. He worked strenuously all spring and then left for the I. C.

Nick Lutze Tackles Strangler Lewis in Finish Match for Wrestling Crown Tonight

OLYMPIC SCENE OF TITLE BOUT

Headlock King Favorite to Toss Chicago Star

Jack Knife Scissors Chief Hold of Challenger

Sandow's Coaching May Turn Battle to Lewis

TONIGHT'S MAT BOUTS

Ed Lewis vs. Nick Lutze, best two out of three falls to a finish for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Milo Steinborn vs. Sanss Kozak, one fall, one hour time limit.

Dr. P. A. Mullikin vs. Arnold Minkley, one fall, 30-minute time limit.

Nick Lutze, the popular young Chicago mat star, will be up against two of the brainiest men known in the wrestling game when he makes his bid for the world's heavyweight title at the Olympic tonight.

Although his opponent in the ring will be none other than the famous Ed "Strangler" Lewis, outside of the ring will be Billy Sandow, manager of the champion, who will be watching and coaching the titleholder by various little signs known only to themselves.

The ruling of the State Athletic Commission forbidding coaching during the matches is expected to have no effect on this pair. A look from either one to the other is all that is needed for these two to understand each other.

WORLD'S CHAMPION SECOND

Sandow, according to Lewis, is the world's champion second. He sees everything that is going on in the ring and he has been more than successful in outsmarting the opposition. Lewis himself is a clever enough wrestler to know when to bring strategy into use, but he has found the advice of Sandow has saved him many times.

The whole thing evolves itself down to the fact that Lutze will have to outsmart two men instead of one if he hopes to win the title and the $10,000 diamond studed belt emblematic of the world's mat championship. Lutze is on the short end of 8-to-5 betting, but so many short-enders have come out winners during the past few years that the Chicago grappler believes he has a chance to win.

Most of Lutze's chances will probably rely upon his taking advantage of any breaks through his speed; his ability to snap a jack-knife scissor on Lewis before the latter brings his headlocks into use, or an injury to the champion that will make it impossible for him to continue with the match.

Anyone of these things is possible. Although Lewis is trained down to so fine a point he will be carrying but a few pounds of extra weight into the ring, he will not be as fast at Lutze. If Nick can throw him off balance by his speed and then clamp a hold on the champion that can stand plenty of leverage, his worries will be over.

Lutze will aim for Lewis's left arm with his jack-knife scissors. It is the arm with which Lewis does all of his squeezing. If Nick can weaken this arm to such an extent as to make it practically ineffective, he will have Lewis half-beaten.

HOLD UNBREAKABLE

When perfectly applied the jack-knife is unbreakable. It tends to paralyze the arm when held for any length of time. It cuts off the circulation of the blood to the hand and makes the hand susceptible to a bone-breaking double wristlock.

Then, too, there is the possibility of an injury deciding the match. There hav been many unintentional injuries in the mat game, two of them being here in the last year. Frank Judson was out of the game for nearly six months from an injured hip received when he wrestled a "masked marvel," while more recently Jack Washburn of Oklahoma tore the ligaments in his left leg when he was thrown into the ropes by Pat McGill, his opponent.

Lewis, of course, is expected to win through the use of his headlocks. It is the hold that has carried him on top of the heavyweight division for years. He applies it as well from the front as he does from the side. This is his best grip, and Lutze has devised two methods of breaking it, either or both of which he intends to use should the occasion demand.

This is the most important match Promoter Lou Daro has scheduled for the Olympic in three years and indications that 10,000 persons will be on hand tonight to witness it.

For clever, scientific wrestling, colored throughout with the most savage grappling ever seen on the Coast, this bout is expected to surpass anything of its kind in this section. Lewis is the most spectacular matman in the game today, Lutze has been consistently good. His fighting qualities have made him a host of followers in this section. He will have the fans on his side when he steps into the ring against the most savage grappler in the game.

JUST RARIN' TO GO

Mr. Ed "Strangler" Lewis, the heavyweight mat champion, in a typical pose as he awaits the gong to tear at an unfortunate rival. The headlock expert has young Nick Lutze, the good-looking chap from the Middle West, as an opponent and a challenger at the Olympic tonight. In the corner with the Strangler is Billy Sandow, his manager and pal. Lewis and Sandow are to the mat game what Dempsey and Kearns were to the fight game for years.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By Paul Lowry

IF THERE was one thing Mr. Tex Rickard, who controls the Cauliflower Trust in New York and other way points, didn't want it was a one-round knockout by Jack Sharkey over Jack Delaney. Mr. Rickard has the lumbering but earnest Mr. Thomas Heeney of New Zealand fighting Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the universe some time in July, and the best Mr. Heeney could get with Mr. Delaney in a recent argument of the fists was a slight decision.

Of course, Mr. Rickard will not wish he could change his mind and substitute Mr. Sharkey for Mr. Heeney. Unfortunately, Mr. Rickard was forced to commit himself some time ago as to the identity of the contenders in this year's Battle of the Century, and inasmuch as Mr. Rickard is now standing none too well with the New York Boxing Commission due to a slight indiscretion during the recent Kearns-Dempsey trial, he probably will have to stand pat.

* * *

Otherwise, I would wager my spare shirt that Mr. Rickard by a bit of conniving here and there, could find some means of making a switch in challengers. The possibility that Mr. Sharkey could land one of his sensational knockout punches on the chin of Mr. Tunney, an expert boxer, just as he did on the button of Mr. Delaney, also a good boxer, certainly would draw more dollars at the gate than the prospect of an earnest young man like Heeney, who will never be able to catch up, hitting Mr. Tunney in the pants or elsewhere.

* * *

Armand Emanuel's recent failure to do much with owld Mike McTigue, after all the ballyhoo he had received as a coming champion, has been hailed by keen followers of the fistic art as proof that Armand isn't destined to get much of anywhere in his eastern excursion.

Mr. Jack Smith, who occasionally finds time as manager at Midwick to talk about the old fighters as well as the young ones, believes Emanuel had better go back to the law business and leave pugilism alone. "If he can't beat a man fifteen years his senior now, he isn't likely to be much of a menace to the ranking heavyweights," quoth the demon sclaiffer of Midwick.

* * *

Poor old Ralph Smith, the human stepladder, just doesn't seem to know when he has had enough. Capt. Seth Shelinger took up the ex-fireman's card in this State nearly two years ago, hoping the big fellow would forget about pugilism, but here he is back in the slaughter pen again. He was chopped to pieces by Jack Crou in Philadelphia the other night.

* * *

Tonight is the big night for Lou Daro. The portly 'rassilin' entrepreneur of Glendale has Strangler Lewis, the once again heavyweight champion of the mat, answering the roll call against Nick Lutze at the Olympic. Lewis, always a favorite and a wonderful showman, will be well worth a visit to the big downtown arena.

He was the cynosure of many eyes at "The Racket" Monday night, when he occupied a front row seat at Broadway's popular show. Incidentally, Turck, one of the sergeants in the cast—the man who "gets" Nick, the villain, at the vital moment—bears a remarkable resemblance to Lewis. He has the large head, the powerful body and same facial expressions as Lewis. Put them together, and they probably would look like a pair of Siamese twins.

KNOCKOUT PROBE LOOMS AS NEW YORK RING CZARS SMELL MOUSE IN SHARKEY'S GLOVES

NEW YORK, May 1. (AP)—Jack Sharkey's sensational one-round knockout of Jack Delaney in Madison Square Garden last night will be investigated by the New York State Athletic Commission, Chairman James A. Farley announced today.

JACK SHARKEY

Although Farley refused to speak for the entire commission, he said investigation of the match already was under way, and that evidence of anything wrong would result in "drastic action."

"All I heard before the fight," Farley said, "were the same rumors that a lot of other people heard. I instructed Referee Lou Magnolia, when he called the fighters to the center of the ring, to tell them what I had heard.

"I told him to say to them that if there was anything wrong with their actions, both would be thrown out of the ring. I haven't seen Magnolia since the fight and so I don't know what he actually said. I assume he obeyed orders."

Reports that Delaney was not in good physical condition prompted Tex Rickard, Garden promoter, to question Jimmy Johnston, part manager of Sharkey, shortly before the bout took place. Johnston said he took Rickard to Johnny Buckley, the sailor's manager, in Sharkey's dressing-room. The promoter was assured that as far as the gob was concerned, the fight was absolutely on the "up and up" and that Sharkey would knock out Delaney whenever he desired regardless of condition.

Joe Jacobs, pilot of the Bridgeport warrior, scoffed at rumors prevalent before the fight, that Delaney had not trained properly. "Delaney was in fine shape as he ever has been."

CALLAHAN MAY DEFEND TITLE AGAINST FIELDS

Mushy Callahan may defend his junior welterweight title against Jackie Fields the middle of June, according to developments in the young gigantic yesterday.

Both Eddie Sears and William Rooney, rival managers of the boxers, held a long conference with Matchmaker Wad Wadhams at the Olympic and came closer to settling terms than before.

Sears is holding out for a large percentade so that Fields would practically have to fight for nothing in order to get the match. Rooney believes that Fields will draw his share of the gate in such a title contest.

Jack Doyle would probably stage the attraction at Wrigley Field. Fields holds one decision over Callahan, but the champion was recovering from an illness at the time. Mushy is in great shape again and is asking for action.

It is believed such a natural between two local Jewish favorites would draw a gate close to $100,000.

CALLAHAN TO WATCH FIELDS VS. FRASER

Mushy Callahan will be a ringsider at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium Friday night when Jackie Fields battles Don Fraser of Spokane.

Callahan wants to study every move Fields makes in the ring up to the time of their meeting. Callahan is a great student of boxing and he believes he will be able to solve Fields's attack if he can see him in enough fights.

The first time that Fields ever saw Fraser was yesterday morning at the Hollywood Stadium. They happened to meet at the ticket window while buying tickets for friends. Joey Greenberg introduced the main-eventers and in size they are about a standoff. Fields took a good look at his opponent as he was walking away from the stadium and remarked to a friend: "Gee, that guy looks pretty rugged and I had better be in good shape for Friday." He then piled into his machine and headed for the Main-street "gym" to go through his training paces.

Windy Winsor is around town boasting about what Bobby Herman will do to Billy Hart in the semi-wind-up. Hart gave Jimmy Piela a tough fight just a few weeks ago, but Windy claims Herman will beat Hart. Hart is one of the hardest little fellows in the game to beat. He may enter the ring a favorite.

McTIGUE MAY BATTLE HOUSE

Mike McTigue was considering an offer yesterday to box Mack House, black heavyweight, at Tia Juana on Labor Day under the promotion of Jim Crofton of the Foreign Club.

Charley Johnston, who is handling McTigue here for the Jack Willis fight next Tuesday night at the Olympic, immediately got in touch with Crofton. The Irishman has no definite plans in the East.

HUGE LIST IN JUNIOR OLYMPIAD

Nearly 21,000 Boys Sign Up to Compete in Sports Festival for Youths

Sweeping success of the Junior Olympic Games in the nine southern counties is shown in the last check made yesterday when nearly 21,000 boys between 9 and 15 years of age had filed their individual entry at headquarters of the juvenile pentathlon.

A glance through the cards proves that really no one district deserves special emphasis over another. Enthusiasm is just as keen in the rural sections as in the more densely populated metropolitan areas. Leaders in playground work, Boy Scout executives and civic workers throughout the nine counties declare that the Junior Olympic Games are the most interesting and the keenest juvenile athletic program ever presented in Southern California. They lay special stress on the coefficient system of scoring which gives every boy regardless of age, weight, or height, an equal chance to win in competition.

Officials are now preparing the Los Angeles county district schedules from which the Los Angeles county champions will emerge for competition in the Southern California finals. The districts in this schedule comprise Santa Monica and vicinity, Inglewood and vicinity, Pasadena, Huntington Park, Monrovia and Long Beach. The Santa Monica and playground district finals will be held at High School Field in Santa Monica on the 8th inst.

Boys from all parts of Riverside county will meet in Riverside to decide the district finals May 5.

From the interest shown by the contestants and the records that are being made at the district meets, officials in charge are free in their prediction that Southern California will return from Atlantic City this summer with the national championship.

Hollywood to Face Franklin in Game Today

Coach Bob Pash's Hollywood High School baseball team opens the City League season today at Franklin. Two games are scheduled tomorrow, L. A. High's powerful team, 1927 champion, tackling Lincoln in the feature, while Polytechnic takes on Jefferson. The games were scheduled to be played Friday, but boys' week caused the games to be shoved ahead.

Pre-season indications point to one of the best seasons in several years, as Lincoln, Franklin and Hollywood all loom as possible champions, along with Herb White's Romans, who have held an option on the title for the past few years.

Hollywood lost a number of veterans through graduation, but Coach Pash expects to make a fair showing. He has a couple of good chuckers, led by Dan Johnson. Bill Lopez also has hopes of annexing the championship.

Lincoln and L. A. High are expected to furnish the feature of the week. Max Cherry, who pitched the Romans to the championship last year, will be back on the mound for L. A. High. Frank Mallette also has a strong, well-balanced nine. The game will be played on the Franklin diamond.

POMONA NINE TO TACKLE ENGINEERS

CLAREMONT, May 1. (Exclusive) Riding right along at the top of the league, Coach Earl Merritt's Pomona varsity ball team hooks up with the strong California Tech nine in its fourth conference game at Pasadena Saturday. The Sagehens are in a tie with two other teams for the league lead, each having won twice and lost once in previous starts. If Pomona wins over Tech on Saturday, and Whittier continues through another week without a defeat, the Pomona-Whittier duel on the 12th inst. will be practically a championship affair.

Stars Slated to Compete in Olympic Tryouts

Kimball and Clapp Will be Sent to Swim Finals

BY OLIVE HATCH

Three Los Angeles divers will be sent to San Francisco to compete in the men's final national Olympic tryouts to be held in San Francisco, June 7 to 10, according to Les Henry, chairman of the A.A.U. swimming committee here. Dave Smith and Mickey Riley of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and Farid Simaika of the Ambassador Swimming and Athletic Club are the lucky but competent performers who will compete.

Simultaneously with announcement of the Olympic tryout finals comes word that two Los Angeles men swimmers will be sent to compete in the national outdoor championships in San Francisco on the same dates. Weston Kimball, holder of the Coast sprint records, and Austin Clapp of the Hollywood Athletic Club are the sole local representatives in the national swimming events.

Due to the fact that the west coast has the lion's share of Olympic hopes in the diving events, the final tryouts were awarded the Coast in conjunction with the national swimming championships to be held at Fleishacker pool. In return for this courtesy on the part of the national body, the men's national outdoor diving championships for this year are awarded to the Detroit Athletic Club, when the Olympic swimming tryouts are to be held. This manipulation of championship events will save the A.A.U. several hundred dollars, which will probably go to the Olympic fund.
